Island Brac is situated between islands Solta and Hvar and it is biggest middle Dalmatian island with 395 km² of space. The island was probably named after a deer – brenthos in Illyrian, a cult animal of Illyrian tribes who inhabited the island. Greeks called it Elaphusa and Bretanide which derives from the world elaphos – deer. Findings in the Kopacina cave are the evidence of the presence of deer on Brac in the prehistoric period. Beach Zlatni rat, Vidova gora, Blaca desert, deep inlets, olive-groves, vineyards, pine wood along the crystal clear sea are images that numerous visitors bring home from the island of Brac.
Island Brac belongs to the sunniest Adriatic area with over 2,700 hours of sunshine a year (in summer 9-12 hours, in winter over 4 hours a day). The average summer temperature is 23.8 C and in winter 8,6 C. Island Brac is characteriSed by all the typical Mediterranean characteristics: long, hot and dry summers and short mild winters. Area of 394 km², a length of 40km and width of 13 km Brac is the most widespread island of Dalmatia, and the third largest among 1185 islands, islets and reefs in the Croatian Adriatic sea.

A small village of Bobovisca is located not far from Bobovisca na moru. Stone houses and paved streets witness the symmetry and simplicity of the plebeian architecture. Bobovisca na moru is located on the west coast of the island of Brac in a beautiful cove that branches into two ports; Bobovisca na moru and Vicja luka. Bobovisca harbour has always been attractive to navigation experts and Vicja luka is interesting for its Illyrian and Greek civilisation sites. The stone waterfront in Bobovisca harbour is harmoniously followed by stone houses. The most beautiful is the Gligo family house from the 18th century now used as a summer mansion. Its imposing beauty dominates the place. The village is ideal for exploring its rich cultural heritage, its Roman and Byzantine archaeological sites and above all, enjoying its genuine hospitality.
